

Our favourite food dispensing toys

Treat-dispensing toys are fantastic both for releasing constructive energy in active dogs and for getting more inactive dogs up and moving. It is a great way to provide mental and physical exercise for your dog (or cat!) and helps to reduce undesired behaviours such as barking, escaping and destruction of the yard. We have come up with a list of toy suggestions from experiences with our own dogs that work well. We recommend a supervision period for each toy to ensure the toy is not damaged or destroyed, as every dog is different and plays with toys differently. For example, some dogs learn to pick up toys and drop them to get food out (eg kong classic), where others learn to fling them around. This can result in some toys being broken when they land on hard surfaces!

Kong Wobbler

Looks like an oversized kong with a hole in it.

Pros:

Comes apart in 2 pieces to allow for easy filling

Solid and lasts well

Easy to clean

Cons:

Can be picked up by some dogs

Treats can be emptied out too quickly

Kong genius

Pros:

Can join them together to add difficulty

Durable

Soft for older dogs and puppies

Easy to clean

Quiet

Bob-a-lot

Sturdy

Adjustable

Easy to fill

Cons:

Dogs can chew the lid

Nina Ottosson Dog pyramid

Pros:

Tough and durable

Cons:

Hard to clean and fill

Some dogs can pick up

Buster cube

- Pros:
 Long lasting
 Durable/tough
 Comes in 2 sizes
 Cons:
 Hard to clean
 Insert can become stuck over time and exposure to elements

Aussie dog tucker ball/staffy ball

- Pros:
 Extra long lasting
Very tough
 Cons:
 Difficult to fill
 Can be too hard and dogs can give up!
 Expensive

Aussie dog home alone toy

- Pros:
 Long lasting
 Durable
 Adds a tug toy element
 Great for active dogs
 Cons:
 Need to find appropriate place to hang
 Is hard to fill and clean
 Expensive

Everlasting fun ball

- Pros:
 Durable
 Quiet
 Easy to clean
 Versatile - can use different types of fillings
 Soft for older dogs and puppies
 Cons:
 Hard to fill
 Need small treats /food unless dogs learn to chew on ball to crunch up treats and empty toy

Busy dog ball

- Pros:
 Can see food inside so dog can be visually stimulated
 Very tough
 Cons:
 Hard to fill and clean
 Only available from the USA

Busy buddy twist and treat

- Pros:
 Can adjust difficulty
 Can use wet and dry foods and can freeze it
 Easy to clean and durable
 Cons:
 Need to use larger sized treats otherwise too easy

Busy buddy kibble nibble

Pros:

Easy to fill and clean

Has rubber edges so is quiet

Cons:

Can be chewed!

Tug a jug

Pros:

Durable and fun (adds a tug toy element)

Can alter difficulty

Easy to load

Cons:

Can be too hard for some dogs!

Omega Tricky ball

Pros:

Tough and durable

Long lasting

Cons:

Dogs can pick it up

Only available from USA

Home made plastic container (e.g milk bottles)

Pros:

Easy to make

Very cheap

Cons:

May not last long!

The wrong type of plastic may give your dog superficial cuts if chewed

Refer to our Entertaining your dog info sheet for instructions

To find some of the above products and for more information, visit:

www.worldforpets.com.au

www.boredombusters.net.au

www.cleanrun.com

www.dogwise.com

You can also search for many of these products and more by using your search engine on the web.

Tips for using treat dispensing toys

All dogs learn at different paces. Some dogs will learn to use treat dispensing toys very easily and often get bored when it becomes too easy for them. Other dogs take a while to learn how to use the toys and can often give up if they don't receive any reinforcement (e.g. the food coming out).

Take some time to teach your dog how to use each different toy. If your dog is getting their food at other times very easily (such as out of a bowl), then some dogs may learn to wait until the easier option becomes available! Teach your dog to work for their food as often as possible.

This also doubles as supervision so you can be sure that your dog is not injuring itself on the toy or breaking the toy.

Make sure you vary the toys you provide your dog with. Even a fabulous treat dispensing toy can become boring when used every day☺.